

Thanks for joining us.

A quick recap of the evening: Nick Foley on what video games teach us about human connection in an AI world, and a live Q&A between Longcloud's Paul Singh and Trent Montgomery, Managing Director of TDM Transport. Scan either code below to go deeper.

1 The Q&A PAUL SINGH × TRENT MONTGOMERY

TDM TRANSPORT · WAIKATO, NZ

Less admin, more road

Paul sat down with TDM's Managing Director Trent Montgomery on the real-time platform Longcloud built: an office portal and driver app on one live database, connecting fleet, drivers, customers and jobs to power the next phase of growth.

Office portal + driver app

Real-time sync

Automated compliance

Want to know more?

Read the full case study. Scan the code or visit:

longcloud.nz/our-work/tdm-transport-fleet-dispatch-portal

2 The Talk

NICK FOLEY · LONGCLOUD

Small country, big leverage

Nick takes a look at the New Zealand video game industry: the studios, the talent and the stories being built right here, and what it tells us about creativity, community and human connection in a world increasingly shaped by AI. He digs into the missed opportunities too, and how, by harnessing collaboration and our unique culture, we can establish ourselves as a world leader in the industry. Oh, and he got our AV guy Rob to play a game he built live, for everyone's entertainment. You had to be there!

Read the slides

Scan to open Nick's full presentation, right in your browser. No download.